inspiration?

David is the founder and principal of 2degreesC, a global organization with a core team in Canada, dedicated to advancing collective action and transformational change in response to the global climate crisis.

Just back from Copenhagen, David is a five-time survivor of international climate negotiations, has visited the Arctic and Antarctic, is a trainee of Al Gore, a presenter with the Climate Project, a writer, a world-wide speaker, and recently completed a cross-Canada 2 degrees tour to inspire and democratize climate action.

A man with a noble cause, David has been described by audiences as engaging, inspiring, motivating... all served up with a big dash of hope.
